

Enabling Transparency in Asset Management

National Government and Local Authority agencies must manage a vast array of goods, inventory, equipment, materials, supplies and more as part of day-to-day operations. Often forced to rely on manual-based processes, agencies lack the level of visibility and control required to effectively manage assets in the office, warehouse and in the field. To meet today's challenges, manual processes need to be replaced with technology that enables optimum accuracy, efficiency and transparency.

Zebra is recognised as a global leader in technologies that enable real-time visibility of physical assets and people, to give you up-to-the-minute awareness of what you have, where it's deployed and what condition it's in at all times.

Technology Solutions For Crisis Response

Track and control physical assets.

The efficient and accurate tracking of high-value assets and equipment is more important than ever. Now, staff can save hours of manual reporting with mobile devices equipped with capabilities to collect data about the location and condition of capital assets. Equip your frontline workers with purpose-built Zebra devices to save time and serve taxpayers more effectively.

Ensure efficient equipment inspections, set preventive maintenance schedules.

Government agencies need to maintain condition and maintenance histories for their capital assets—and access to this detailed data makes it possible to schedule regular maintenance. Zebra can help you automate time-consuming processes, maximise staff efficiency during inspections, enhance worker safety and improve workflows.

Enable accountable financial reporting.

Government agencies establish accountability and transparency about their financial conditions and assets and gain insights about future needs. Because Zebra mobile solutions make secure and accurate documentation of asset condition, location, inventory and integration into all your systems, you will always have the data you need for accurate reporting.

Manage evidence from the field to the evidence room.

Evidence management is a critical component of the criminal justice system and government responsibilities. Zebra mobile devices are equipped with state-of-the-art solutions for managing evidence—including integration of evidence tracking, analytical results, forensic laboratory management, property room management, and many other capabilities to provide a comprehensive view of cases.
