Order volume is growing. Expectations for faster delivery keeps rising. Optimise your fulfillment operations with mobile technologies—better data means smarter delivery, means you’re future-ready.

Barcode and RFID give your physical goods a digital presence to have real-time visibility throughout order fulfillment.

Enterprise mobile technology allow for data capture, mobile computing and printing from the front-line of business.

Productivity applications and data analytics add efficiencies and provide real-time guidance for business-critical decisions.

Support your decisions with data. Digitize workflows with enterprise technology.

Our ecosystem of digital solutions helps transform your fulfillment workflows into an integrated data-powered environment.

Visit zebra.com/fulfillment to learn how to build a digitized future-ready fulfillment operation.

Order Picking

49% of organizations are planning to adopt wearable mobile computers by 2028.

Inventory Management

91% of organizations are planning to adopt warehouse management systems and third-party logistics partners that can provide visibility for order fulfillment.

49% expected increase in the adoption of wearable mobile computers by 2028.

Inbound

55% of organizations are planning to adopt warehouse management systems and third-party logistics partners that can provide visibility for order fulfillment.

98% of transportation and logistics providers will provide visibility by investing in tools for electronic interface with shippers by 2028.

Outbound

98% of organizations are planning to adopt warehouse management systems and third-party logistics partners that can provide visibility for order fulfillment.

49% expected increase in the adoption of wearable mobile computers by 2028.